It is designed with simplicity in mind, featuring a clean button layout and a dedicated setup key. Whether you are setting it up for the first time or trying to re-program it after a battery change, this article will serve as your definitive resource. We will explore the most effective ways to locate and enter the appropriate codes, and we will provide you with practical advice to ensure a smooth and successful setup experience.

What Is the Philips SRU 3003WM17 Universal Remote?

The Philips SRU 3003WM17 is a replacement universal remote control that can operate up to three different devices: a TV, a DVD player, and a VCR or satellite receiver. It is a pre-programmed remote, meaning it already contains a vast library of infrared codes for thousands of devices from hundreds of brands. The remote uses a simple code entry method or an automatic code search feature to match your device. It is powered by two AAA batteries (not included) and has a range of approximately 8 to 10 meters.

One of the defining features of this remote is its affordability and ease of use. It does not require any internet connection, smartphone app, or complex programming software. You simply point the remote at your device, enter a code, and you are done. The remote is especially popular among users who prefer a minimalist approach to home entertainment control, without the clutter of multiple original remotes.

How to Find Codes for Philips Universal Remote SRU 3003WM17

Finding the correct codes for Philips universal remote SRU 3003WM17is the most critical step in the programming process. The remote comes with a code list in the user manual, but if you have lost the manual, you can often find the codes online or use the automatic search method. How to Program Your Philips SRU 3003WM17 Remote

There are two primary methods to program the Philips Universal Remote SRU 3003WM17: direct code entry and automatic code search. Both methods are straightforward, but you may need to try multiple codes if the first one does not work.

Method 1: Direct Code Entry

This is the quickest method if you have the correct code from the list above or from your manual.

1. Turn on the device you want to control (TV, DVD, VCR, etc.) manually using its power button.
2. On the Philips remote, press and hold the SETUP button until the red light on the remote turns on and stays lit. Then release the SETUP button.

3. Press the device button you want to program (e.g., TV, DVD, or VCR). The red light will blink once and then stay on.
4. Using the number keypad, enter the 4-digit code from the list. The red light will turn off after the correct code is entered.
5. Point the remote at your device and press the POWER button. If the device turns off, the programming was successful. If it does not, repeat the steps with a different code.

Once the remote is programmed, all the buttons (volume, channel, input, etc.) should work with your device.

Method 2: Automatic Code Search

If you do not have the code or the direct entry method fails, you can use the automatic search feature. This method scans through all the codes stored in the remote until it finds one that works with your device.

1. Turn on your device manually.
2. On the Philips remote, press and hold the SETUP button until the red light turns on and stays lit. Release the SETUP button.
3. Press the device button you want to program (e.g., TV). The red light will blink once and then stay on.
4. Press the POWER button repeatedly (once per second) while pointing the remote at your device. The remote will send a power-off signal for each code. When the device turns off, stop pressing the POWER button immediately.
5. Press the SETUP button to lock in the code. The red light will turn off.

This method may take several minutes, but it is highly effective when you cannot find the correct code
